Lands Located in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

THE PROPERTIES OF THIS COMPANY consist of 423 acres of the most desirable Oil Lands in these States, selected with care and judgment by practical men, after prospecting and examining the most productive regions and localities.

A large part of it is situated on Dunkard creek, Green county, Pennsylvania, where, in proportion to development, the quantity and quality of the Oil found, is superior to Oil creek, it commanding a higher price in the Pittsburgh market.

The lands in West Virginia are located in Monongahela and Wetzel counties, and are considered among the best in the State.

In Ohio, the Company property is located in Knox county, where the indications are most favorable.

Oil of a superior character as a lubricator being found at a depth of 300 feet, on adjacent lands, and within a few feet of the Company's property.

The Company are already sinking one well, and have arranged to commence two more, as soon as the necessary machinery can be put on the ground.—

THREE WELLS have recently been struck out by a short distance from the property of this Company.

SEVEN OTHERS, of which, in one year, nearly repay the entire capital of the Company.

The officers of this Company, in placing its stock before the public, are confident that the inducements offered are not surpassed by any Company

Ohio Statesman.

The Funeral Oration Delivered in

New York by George Bancroft.

New York, April 26.—The following is the substance of the oration.

Mr. Bancroft said: Our grief at the crime which had clothed the continent in mourning, finds no adequate expression in words, no relief in tears. Neither the office with which Mr. Lincoln was invested, by the approved choice of a mighty people, nor his simple-hearted kindness of nature, could save him from the fiendish passions of re-sentless fanaticism. Millions attend his re-manus, as they are borne in solemn procession over our great rivers, along the sea side, beyond the mountains, across the prairies, to their final resting-place in the valley of the Mississippi. The echoes of his glorious deed reverberated through the world, and the friends of freedom every where, and in every clime, are his mourners. Members of the Government which preceded his administration opened the gates of treason, and he closed them. When he went to Washington, he brought with him the torch of truth, and he kindled it in the heart of the nation. He was the first to see the truth, and he was the first to speak it. He was the first to see the truth, and he was the first to speak it.

He was the first to see the truth, and he was the first to speak it. He was the first to see the truth, and he was the first to speak it. He was the first to see the truth, and he was the first to speak it. He was the first to see the truth, and he was the first to speak it.

see the truth, and he was the first to

ren R. Davis, Esq., in the Hall of the House of Representatives—of which body Mr.

Davis had been a member from the State of South Carolina. The procession had moved out with the body, and its front had reached the foot of the broad steps of the eastern portico, when the President, with Mr.

Woodbury, Secretary of the Treasury, and Mr. Mallon, Dickerson, Secretary of the Navy, were leaning from the door of the great rotunda—which opens upon the por-tico. At that instant a person stepped from the crowd into the little open space in front of the President, leveled a pistol at him, at the distance of about eight feet, and attempted to fire. It was a percussion cap, and the cap exploded, without firing the powder in the barrel. The explosion of the cap was so loud that many persons thought the pistol had fired; I heard it at the foot of the steps, far from the place and a great crowd between. Instantly the person dropped the pistol which had missed fire, took another which he held readily cocked, the left hand concealed by a cloak—called it and pulled the trigger.

It was also a percussion cap, and the cap exploded without firing the powder in the barrel. The President instantly rushed upon him with his uplifted cane; the man sprang back; Mr. Woodbury fired a blow at him; Lieutenant (senior) of the Navy, by whom he was committed in default of trial. His name was ascertained to be Richard Lawrence, an Englishman by birth, and house-trained by trade at present; out of employment, melancholy and feeble.

The pistols were examined, and found to be well loaded; and fired afterwards without falling, carrying their bullets true, and driving them through the boards at thirty feet distance; nor could any reason be found for the two failures at the door of the rotunda.

On his examination the prisoner seemed to be at his ease, as if unconscious of having done anything wrong—evidently to cross-examine the witnesses who testified against him, or give any explanation of his conduct.

THE Feeling in Lee's Army.

Col. JOHN W. FORNEY visited Richmond after the surrender of Lee, and he has given to the public the following as a fact:

When the rebel troops laid down their arms, three days after the formal surrender (as I learn from an eye witness), both armies commingled together, and many of the men embraced and shed tears like long separated brothers and friends. This noble enthusiasm and nobility of nature was a legitimate offspring of the teachings of Abraham Lincoln to the American people.

ATWOOD'S

PATENT DRILLING MACHINE,

PILE DRIVER,

AND

HYDRAULIC SAND PUMP.

PRACTICAL TESTS have fully demonstrated the superiority of this machine over all others for the purpose of sinking Oil Wells, the underground is now prepared to receive orders for the same.

This machinery comprises everything required for the boring of oil wells, including the STEAM EN-GINE AND CAST IRON DRIVING SHAFTS, and will be furnished, if desired, at a reasonable price, and dispenses with the use of the Derrick, Rope, Bull wheel and other cumbersome and expensive fixtures now in use, and is so arranged, being constructed on wheels and portable, that it can be easily removed from the place of sinking wells to another locality.

THE DETRIMENTAL is removed from the well by our patent Hydraulic process, and does not require the removal of the drill from the boring. This pro-
